About Our Remind...

Editor Note: I wanted to address this article to Allen High School Key Clubbers who are confused about our Remind. This article will detail how the KC Remind is down, why it is down, and how to join the new one.

As many of the members know, the Key Club Remind went down in the last week of November. Beyond making it difficult to send reminders about services, it has made collecting all service hours and letting Key Clubbers know about business and service meetings near impossible. Board members found out about the problem Tuesday, November 30, when Tariq was attempting to send a Remind about donations. Remind, the company, said that our group, Allen High School Key Club, had exceeded the maximum number of students and that a bill would be charged for all Remind messages being sent out thereafter. Being perplexed at the situation, Tariq attempted to contact support, but it was past operating hours and his call was sent to voicemail. Remind constitutes an essential part of our operation as a club, it allows board members to communicate with Key Club members in an efficient and concise manner, expediting the communication process. As such, we were desperate in trying to recover the "free" status of the account.

Upon further inquiry, board members were informed that it was Allen High School as an organization who had exceeded the limit for membership on Remind.

All clubs filing their Remind accounts under Allen ISD as an organization were affected by the suspension of the Remind account, and Allen ISD was footed with the bill. As of now, Allen High School administration has not indicated whether they will choose to fund the operation of AHS clubs on Remind, leaving Key Club communication in a slump. As such, the board has taken precautionary measures in the meantime to resume communication with its members. We created new Remind groups, with each chat being dedicated to members in a specific grade level. This will allow the club to send out important information about the hours forms, services, and logging hours on X2VOL in the meantime. The link for the new Remind groups will be included at the end of the article.

While the incident gave all of us on the Key Club Board a scare, it also gave us a valuable lesson in crisis management. Faced with a loss of communication to members, the board quickly decided to adapt and send out information about our club through other mediums, such as word of mouth, our Instagram, and the business meeting slides. We hope that our temporary loss of communication with our members will not hinder the club's ability to serve and are working to inform members about Key Club events.

Allen Key Club Creek Cleanup

By : Allison Dwigins

On Saturday, October 23rd, 22 Key Club members gathered behind Allen High School to make a physical impact on their community. After suiting up in gloves and vests in the parking lot, they headed off to help the environment. In a forest behind the school, the members picked up over 12 large bags of trash and litter that was strewn along the sidewalk, creek and among the trees. Although many Key Club members focused on the sidewalks and around the creek, several members went to tackle Key Club's largest goal, the couch.

This group had to physically remove a large couch that was hanging on the bank of the creek. In order to do this, the members dragged the couch into the rushing creek and pushed the couch upstream, so they didn't have to carry the couch up a steep incline. They managed to get the couch to a part of the creek that was shallow enough to allow them to carry it up. Eventually the couch was out of the creek and heading to the dumpster.

Other members of the group were able to collect many items such as small water bottles, cups from fast food restaurants, random articles of clothing, and so much more.

This impacted the community because we were able to clean up habitats of animals in the community and make sure that animals did not die from consuming certain trash. Since this trash would soon be taken to a landfill in the community, our group was able to restore the creek and the forest that were polluted with toxic trash. Not only did we help the fish in the creek and the squirrels in the community, we made Allen more beautiful to look at as citizens of our community walk these trails of nature.

Finally, I personally enjoyed this experience despite being very disgusting afterwards. The group was super kind, and we were quite productive in cleaning the community. The creek was a challenge, but in the end it felt amazing to have made a difference in the Allen community by picking up trash. Some people thanked us as we were cleaning, and this made the reality of what we were doing so much larger. Overall this experience was one of the best service experiences I have participated in, not only because of the amazing people I was surrounded by, but because of the impact we had on nature and those around us.

Eagle Give Day

By : Elias Munteanu

Seeing the results of the pandemic on the bonds of the Allen community, Allen High School decided to dedicate a half-day to service for all students. Allen Key Club specifically was with PB and Joy, collaborating with the IB program at our school with Key Club Board member Shivani Purohit (SPC Chairwoman) as a liaison. The experience would be memorable for all Key Club members involved.

The day started off hectic as ever, with administration and students confused with the novel layout of the day. Students could not only donate to a specific cause leading up to the half day, they could also choose to attend different services during their class periods. Being a Key Club board member, I was tasked with handling PB and Joy services throughout the course of the day. PB and Joy is a service project at Allen High School responsible for the creation and distribution of peanut butter and jelly sandwiches to the homeless in Dallas.

Given my fulfilling experience with angel league, I decided to volunteer along with special needs volunteers at PB and Joy. The result was an exciting one, with every volunteer pushing out sandwiches at a quick pace for an hour and a half.

By : Elias Munteanu

After PB and Joy, I joined the special needs students in their classrooms, chatting while coloring various papers. It was a valuable cool down period from the hecticness of the cafeteria. Throughout the day, I was able to meet new people and did valuable service work in the process.

I really did enjoy the day and commend the administration for their wonderful job managing the stressful day. I was better able to understand the work that goes into managing such large services, there were over 300 people volunteering for PB and Joy in the cafeteria. A clear plan and level-headed leader is essential, which Shivani Purohit provided in her role. Reflecting upon the day, I hope Allen High School can incorporate more dedicated service days into their schedule, especially during half-days. Not only would it introduce students early in their life to the value of service, it would be a productive use of an otherwise wasted day. I also hope that Allen Key Club will host a service project next service day. I am excited for the prospect that service days like this one provide for the future of Allen ISD and Key Club, and with the dedication of the board and school administration, we can continue to benefit the community with our actions.

Thank You for Your Service

By : Elias Munteanu

Armistice Day, known in the US as Veterans Day, marks the end of World War I in 1918.

Upon seeing how the war ravaged Europe and its people, the Allies decided to mark the day as one of remembrance for those who fought in the war and the lives lost to it. A number of our staff at Allen High School are members of the military community, with the city of Allen itself possessing a sizable number of veterans. As such, Allen High School Key Club decided to dedicate a multitude of services to creating a hundred gift bags for AHS staff who are veterans as well as for veterans in the community.

The first order of business was creation of the gift bags. Luckily, the club had organized a service in late October for the creation of personalized cards and gift bags for veterans for this purpose. After this came the creation of posters for veterans attending the Veteran's Day meeting. This was left up to Charlene Han, a fellow board member, who did an excellent job creating the posters. Pictures of each branch of the military were included, expressing Allen Key Club's desire to recognize all members of the US military. Lastly, gift bags were assembled with treats, including Cracker Jacks and Little Debbie treats, tasty treats the recipients enjoyed.

By : Elias Munteanu

As for distribution of the bags, board members would take them to the various veterans in Allen while Tariq and I would deliver them to the Veteran's Day meeting at the Allen Train Depot. Staff who received the gift bags were pleasantly surprised, thanking the club for its service. Mrs. Doyle, a well-renowned calculus teacher at our high school, took the gesture especially well, thanking Meghna Paul, the Allen KC president, and Shivani Purohit, KC SPC Chairwoman, for the token of appreciation. At the Veteran's Day meeting, the atmosphere was fittingly sober. As attendees filed in, Tariq and I took care to distribute the labelled bags to the correct members, each of which was excited to see what each gift contained.

I believe Allen Key Club exists for services like these, showing our appreciation to various groups around the Allen community. While our club exists for other purposes, including valuable volunteer work on flag routes, concessions, and even food drives, thanking others for their service to the community provides a unique opportunity to reflect upon the work volunteers around Texas do to better their communities, and provide a token of appreciation for the countless hours of work and dedication required to serve.

A Dose of Holiday Cheer

By : Elias Munteanu

The holidays are an exciting time for students. Christmas and the welcomed two weeks off it brings are approaching. Presents lie glistening with mystery under the twinkling and vibrantly deep green Christmas tree, bringing with them the prospect of meeting family and friends. Allen Key Club may not be at Allen High School to celebrate Christmas, but we still have a way to show appreciation for the people that breathe life into our campus, the teachers and staff.

Candy Sleighs are an annual service provided by our Key Club wherein a concoction of candies, such as Kit-Kats, Candy Canes, and Hersheys are used to create sleighs. These are then handed out to teachers along with holiday gift bags. The service has been run by Tariq Ahmed, the KC Vice President, for the last two years. His idea was to create a fun and festive way to show our appreciation for our teachers at Allen High School. Ever since, the idea has been a hit, with droves of students signing up for the service. But before this, the creation of the holiday gift bags takes place.

By : Elias Munteanu

At our service meeting in November, our board offered students the opportunity to create these gift bags as a show of appreciation. Students could choose from a variety of designs, including elf, Santa, and reindeer gift bags, as well as create their own designs. The students were especially enthusiastic about the service as it let them express their creative side.

Custom designs included fireplaces, Christmas trees, and even Santa's sleigh. After this, board members would be tasked with collecting donations for sleighs and gift bags before assembling and distributing the bags. As of this point, the assembly of these items are well underway, with teachers anticipating the now famous sleighs.

Being my first year as a board member, the holiday experience in Key Club has given me a new perspective on the work of the club. I realized that under all the hard work we as a club do, it could not be done without the support of our wonderful volunteers. It is their dedication and commitment that makes services like this happen. Furthermore, the innovation of board members like Tariq and his candy sleighs provides a wonderful addition to the handmade holiday bags created by students. Though the semester may be coming to an end for now, Allen Key Club is working hard as ever to show our appreciation for our staff this holiday season.
